2015 USSEA Conference: An Inclusive World: Bridging Communities

July 17 - 19 at Queens Museum in Queens, New York

The Conference will examine art education in classrooms, museums and community arts organizations. Art education provides critical tools to enhance individuals and communities in their self-reflection, ways of being, and interpreting and resolving problems. While these settings are often separate entities, this conference will examine ways that participants might share resources, knowledge, and expertise to enrich their respective disciplines.

2015 USSEA Conference is endorsed by InSEA.

contemporary art triennial for school students

TALLINN 23.10-23.11.2014
ART & SCIENCE

The international youth contemporary art triennial Eksperimenta! returns to Tallinn for the second time to explore the topic of Art and Science from 23rd October to 23rd November. Together with the opening of the exhibition the Eksperimenta! team invites education and art professionals to the IDEALaboratory to explore the Art of Teaching and Art of Assessment on 24th and 25th October.

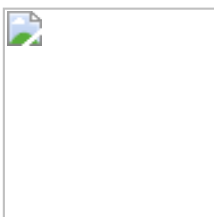

Eksperimenta! presents artworks by young artists aged 14 to 19 from 11 countries in Tallinn's oldest church – St. Catherine's and in the medieval merchant's house Hopner House on the Town Hall Square. The nearly 800-year-old church as a venue for artwork by the very young artists presents a challenge and contrast but also proves that the Old Town is still very much alive and open for new brave ideas and free thinking.

Eduko IDEAlaboratory conference on art of education and art of assessment in creative subjects takes place from 24th to 25th October. Presentations and workshops will present experiences from Brazil to Portugal and Russia covering a wide area from theoretical questions of contemporary art education to practical workshops.

NAEA 2014-2015 Interactive Chats

The NAEA Research Commission invited InSEA members to participate in a series of free, online events for NAEA members. Beginning in the fall, events include week-long chats and blogs about important research topics and their application to art education inquiry in all settings. Currently, Distinguished Fellows, members of the Women's Caucus, and participants in the Data Visualization Working Group will be hosting chat events relative to various research issues.
