InSEA participated in the 7th International UNESCO NGO Forum 2017 in Riyadh

As delegate of the International Society of Education Through Art (InSEA), world councillor Mohammed Al-Amri have participated in the 7th International UNESCO NGO Forum 2017 held in Riyadh and organized in partnership with MiSk Foundation on May 3-4, 2017. In this UNESCO NGO Forum, more than 400 NGOs including InSEA and over 2,100 delegates from around 70 countries attended. "Youth and their social impact" was the main topic of this forum. Speakers included Olympic gold medallist Carl Lewis, and Wikipedia founder Jimmy Wales; including different sessions such as Setting the Scene: Youth Engagement and its potential for Social Change, Optimizing the Impact of the Digital Native, and Educating for a Sustainable Future, in addition to breakout sessions and NGOs presentations such as AIC, AMGE, CID, UNIMA, ISOCARP, CCVS, ISPA, INSEA, WFTU and OIEC.

InSEA's presentation at the 7th UNESCO NGO Forum focused on the crucial role of youth in society and the important role education through art has to play in the social changes and challenges facing the world today.

InSEA is a Network for all including youth themselves, educators, artists, and researchers who do care about future of art education in the worldwide society
